If the management did not have to go down into their pockets as they did in the case of "The Power Behind the Throne" production to make up for an able-bodied deficiency, they would more fully appreciate the very "liberal patronage" of theatergoers; and it would add amazingly to their general jocularity. JAKE ELLMAN FOUND GUILTY

A NEW TRIAL IS ASKED FOR IN HIS CASE.

It Is Contended That Under the Law Ellman Could Not Be Convicted for the Reason That the Proof Was Not Adequate-Shoplifting Case Occupied the Attention of Judge Edwards and a Jury All Day-Old Forge Shooting Case Before Judge Purdy.

Jacob Ellman was vesterday convicted of the charge of subornation of perjury on which he was tried Tuesday before Judge George Purdy, of Wayne county. His attorney, John J. Murphy, at once asked for a new trial and an arrest of judgment on the ground that Ellman cannot be legally convicted, because the commonwealth did not, as the law requires, have two witnesses to testify to the perjury, or one witness and corroborative circumstances equal to another witness

This morning the matter will be argued before Judge Purdy. It is necessary to dispose of the matter at once for the reason that Max Herring, the principal witness against Ellman, is being detained in the county jail. If a new trial should be granted Ellman will be arraigned again this term for triat.

Before Judge Edwards, practically the entire day was taken up with the trial of the case of Mrs. Fresina Co pina. There were two cases, both charging the theft of goods from the store of Jonas Long's Sons, in De cember. Judge Edwards took one of them from the consideration of the jury, saying these was no evidence to convict. At 4 o'cleck, the jury went out to consider the other indictment. The defense was that the woman had purchased all of the goods found on her and her two daughters, who were standing in the lobby of the store at the time of their arrest. The jury had not returned its verdict up to adjourning hour.

NAFUS NOT GUILTY.

Earl Nafus, a drayman, was tried before Judge Purdy in No. 3 on a charge of larceny by bailee, preferred by H. Goldschlager, who runs a store on Penn avenue. The testimony showed that Nafus was employed to cart a box from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western freight house to Goldschlager's store. The prosecutor alleges that Nafus kept the box of goods instead of delivering them. In his defense Nafus said when he took the box to Goldschlager's store he asked fifty cents for his services and Goldschlager would give him only twenty-five cents. He thereupon took the box back. Judge Purdy decided that the case was no one of larceny by battee and directed that a verdict of not guilty be taken.

Nicola Netalia was tried for feloniously wounding Adam Friedmonsky at Old Forge in September last. It was a shooting affray and was the outgrowth of the strike at the Jermyn No. 1 colliery at that place. The defendant and Nicholas Rogers, both Italians and special officers of Old Forge, had been protecting men who were taking the place of the strikers at the mine and had incurred the ill will of the people of the neighborhood. On the day of the shooting they were attacked by a big crowd and Netalla was knocked yn and somewhat severely He drew his revolver and fired several shots into the crowd near him. On of the bullets lodged in the groin of Adam Friedmonsky, who is alleged to have been standing quietly at the gat in front of his residence. His injuries ere of a serious nature and he was laid up for about two months.

NETALIA'S STATEMENT. Netalia said that just before he fired he saw Friedmonsky coming through his gate with stones in his hands and advancing toward him in a very threatening manner and that thereupon he fired. The accused was defended by Attorney John H. Bonner, and the commonwealth's interests were looked after by Assistant District Attorney Gramer and Atterney P. F

Loughran. Thomas Connell was yesterday returned not guilty of the larceny of a porse from Henry Morgan. The case was the outgrowth of a horse deal and was tried before Judge Kelly.

Mrs. Melicent Winebrake was charged with illegally practicing medicine by William Robinson. Mrs. Winebrake lives in West Scranton. She denies she practices medicine stating that she is a nurse and cares for the patients of her son, Dr. Winebrake. She contends that her arrest was brought about by her insisting that Robinson pay a bill he owes her for nursing his wife. The jury was out deliberating on the case at adjourning

John B. Diegetman was tried before Judge Kelly on a charge of false preences preferred by J. E. Cleveland. The latter alleges that Diegelman sold him a bond of the Luckawanna Stone ompany for $500, alleging that interest was paid on it regularly. After securing the bond Cleveland learned that the bond had not paid any interest for a long time, although the coupons were forn off each month to give the Impression that the Interest was being MAKES DENIAL.

Diegelman denied that he had made my false representations and said that he was acting for another in the sale of the honds. The case will go to the jury this morning. Cleveland is represented by Attorney J. M. Walker, and the defendant by Attorneys Herman Osthaus and C. Ballentine. The following action was taken with reference to cases:
